SOLOMON SWALLOW,
THE WOMAN TAMELED.

"Rule a Wife, and have a wife."

Solomon Swallow was a bachelor, and a rascally one, too; but nevertheless, he had made up his mind to one thing; that was the only man living who had acquired any knowledge of the sublime art of taking care of a wife. All married men are dolls," was Solomon's constant observation.

"There, for instance, is my neighbor Tom Tingible; his wife makes a sort of three-legged stool of him; she shoves him in one corner and then in another, and sits on him, and walks on him, as if he was nobody in the house; while he, poor man, takes it as easy, as if it was the most natural thing in the world. Now that I were only Tom Tingible; I'd first write a series of matrimonial rules; and if Mrs. T. didn't abide by them, I'd submit her to the wholesome discipline of bread and water and a padlock;

and maybe brighten her ideas by the application of the good cow-hide. And there again are

Everett Easy, Dick Smooks, and a host more of them in the same condition; but I, I'm the boy that will set them all right, if they will only follow my example, after I have condescended to endow some fortunate female with the legal title to the title of Mrs. Swallow."

Brave Solomon Swallow!

"Well, Solomon," said a neighbor to him one morning, "how come it that you are not married?"

"Why, because I have not perfected my system; you pole your head into the noose without making any preparation, and hence Mrs. Eggert makes what she likes of you. But I begin by studying the erudite works of Zingulbraze,

"On the philosophy of woman's tongue." I then read several treatises "On the effect of bread and water discipline in the making of good wives."

Shakespeare's "Taming a Shrew," furnished me with a few excellent practical lessons. And I am now generalizing all their systems into one, which shall carry them away in all future generations, and convert the plague of matrimony into a blessing.

In the course of a year or so," added Solomon,

"my rules for the regulation of woman (intended to publish them) will be completed, and then I shall take me a wife!"

And Solomon was as good as his word, for at the age of forty-five (feeling able to give battle to any one in or out of the land of Amazonas) he got married. At this important period Solomon was a puffy, comfortable looking fellow,

as you'd meet in a day's walk, and the crown of his head never shone so brightly as when the hilt of his broadsword he wore at his side.

He would have been an Alcalde, or even a Lord Mayor; and his manners were such when walking with any lady that she would have been a princess, or a queen, while at such times his countenance always assumed an expression that could not brook the approach of familiarity. The lady whom Solomon had chosen for his "wonder half" was apparently a lamb-like creature, so that the chances were very fair that she would not only be a tractable wife, but that Solomon would require no help from his system to make her so.

Now Solomon had the forbearance not to inter-fer with his lady's sayings and doings on the wedding, nor is it recorded that he assumed especial authority on the next night either, but about six o'clock the next morning he softly intimated to his partner that it was time to get up.

"And," he added, "when breakfast is ready, you may call me, but be sure not to burn the toast."

"Breakfast and toast," said Mrs. Swallow,

"why, what do you mean?"

"Why, my dear, I mean, madam, that I have begun my system!"

"And won't you get up, too?"

"Yes, when breakfast is ready, and my stockings are dried."

Mrs. Swallow was about to reply, but she checked herself, as she was ashamed to say much to him on so short an acquaintance. But though in the present instance she did precisely as she was bid, she resolved in heart it was the last time she would get up at six in the morning to prepare breakfast.

At eight o'clock, everything being ready,

Mrs. Swallow called Mr. Swallow.

"Breakfast is ready, Mr. Swallow."

"Is the toast made?"

"Yes."

"Burned?"

"No."

"Are my stockings dried?"

"Yes."

"You'll do," quoth Mr. Swallow, and to breakfast he went, having first received the services of the blushing Mr. Swallow to assist him in making his meal; for he served the cheap-

The breakfast, however, did not turn out to what it had been cracked up for.

The toast was done a little too much, and the tea wasn't done quite enough, the slop bowl was at the wrong end of the tray, and there were several crumbs on the carpet.

"These things call for improvement," observed Mr. Swallow.

"They should be cared for by a servant," quietly replied Mrs. Swallow.

"Servant," returned Solomon, "I discharged her yesterday. You don't think I can afford to keep a servant and a wife too?"

The lady was again poised, and she said nothing, but the day wore to its close before she could bring herself to believe that Mr. Swallow had actually made use of the words "servant" and "wife" in the same sentence.

The next morning at six o'clock, Mr. Swallow again informed his wife that it was time to get up, coupling the remark with the suggestion that in future she must save him the trouble of reminding her of so necessary a duty.

Mrs. Swallow, however, benefited nothing by this soft insinuation; for at the moment, she either was, or pretended to be, fast locked in the arms of Morphens.

"Don't you hear, Mrs. Swallow," quoth Solomon.

But alas! a slight conscious snore was the only response from Mrs. Swallow.

Now this was a ticklish point with Solomon, but he was prepared to meet it. "What snuff my system on this head?" he said to himself musingly. "It says that a wife who lies abed in the morning, may be profitably reminded of her by the judicious application of a corncob, and this magnificent idea had scarcely crossed the threshold of his brain, than he inserted the point of a huge pin into the arm of the sleeper.

As might be expected, the intended effect followed the cause, for the astonished Mrs. Swallow sprang from her bed as though she had been thrown from it by an earthquake! But alas! her agility was too strikingly manifested, for independent of Solomon's mangled hand, parboiled neck, and shoulders, he saw as plain as mud that the dial and crockery must be replaced; so that the reducing of his voluminous system to practice must be attended with an outlay of at least twenty dollars. This being the case, "I might as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb," thought he, and with that he rose from the chair, stole softly out of the room, and turned the key upon the gentle Mrs. Swallow.

The turning of the key made her aware of his intention, when she rushed to the door, but it was too late.

"Open the door this instant, Mrs. Swallow!"

"Not until I have kept you here seven days upon bread and water," returned the victorious Solomon, and he went his way rejoicing.

"But alas! how fleeting is human greatness! In about half an hour he returned to see how matters were going on, but he had scarcely put his eye to the key-hole, when he began roaring like a bull; for Mrs. Swallow had torn every one of his linen shirts, (that on his back excepted,) into pieces to make a rope to let herself down from the window; nor was this all, upon further examination, he discovered that she had thrown a variety of chair cushions, bed linen, &c., into the yard, to make her descent safe and comfortable.

The archives of the Swallows are silent as to the remaining occurrences of this eventful day, but on the next morning, about seven o'clock, Mr. Swallow popped his head out from under the blanket, and said, "Mrs. Swallow—dear—"

"Open the door this instant, Mrs. Swallow!"

"Not until I have kept you here seven days upon bread and water," returned the victorious Solomon, and he went his way rejoicing.

"And what are these, Mr. Swallow?"

"Be silent, madam, if you please; not to talk but to listen, is one of the most important of life's secrets," said Solomon, smiling.

"Proceed, sir."

Mr. Swallow looked daggers at her for this sudden interruption, and proceeded—

"From six to eight you are to get up, dress tidy, go to create no disturbance, light a fire, air clothing and stockings, sweep rooms, prepare breakfast, and announce the perfection thereof. Eight to ten, wash tea things, make up, rub furniture, and clean windows. Then off to market, and prepare dinner. Twelve to two, devote to dih washing, sweeping up, rubbing furniture. Two till six, spinning, and mending clothes, and darning stockings. Seven to

"From that time till nine, a second course of mending and darning, and then to bed!" And this daily course, madam, with a strict observance of the rules of civility, frugality, decorum, and obedience, may in time enable you to do honor to the choice of Mr. Solomon Swallow."

Mrs. Swallow listened quietly to the end, and then mildly inquired,

"And do you really expect this of me, Mr. Swallow?"

"To be sure I do," responded her spouse.

"Then you'll be sadly disappointed, if we do not such a thing."

"No?"

"I've a way to make you."

"How?"

"Spoon diet, locks, chains, and a cow-lid."

"Mr. Swallow?"

"What?"

"You are a brute!" said Mrs. Swallow throw herself back and looked desperate.

Now this was a climax. Mr. Swallow was called a brute at his own fireside, and worst of all, by his own wife. He, Solomon Swallow, the founder of a system of Matrimonial Observations, called a brute, and by no less a person than Mrs. Swallow. At first he was astonished at such open manifestations of rebellion to his royal will, that he only looked aglost; but when he came to himself, he saw that something must be done at once, or the field was lost forever.

"You call me a brute, Mrs. Swallow?"

"A brute!"

"A brute?"

"As you like, sir."

And Mr. Swallow did go mad, but he had a method in his madness; for he seized the cheap-

Abstract of Bank Commissioners' Report.
To the Governor and Council of the State of Maine.

The undersigned, having visited the incorporated banks in the State, transacting business, during the months of September and October last, report, most respectfully, that they have found those banks in a condition, which, in our judgment is safe. Though the liabilities are unusually large, the resources of those banks, we believe are abundant. It is true that the circulation of the bills of the banks is larger than at any former period, which, in view of legal provisions, we cannot command. The individual deposits are also unusually large. Yet these two items amount only to the sum of four millions seven hundred and forty-four dollars and fifty-seven cents to wit:

Circulation, $2,982,674 00

Deposits, 1,856,889 57

These constitute the only liabilities of the banks to the public. The reserved profits belong to the stockholders.

To meet this circulation and these deposits, the banks have in their vaults, four-hundred there has, during the last ninety days, been a somewhat severe pressure in the monetary affairs of the country, and the moneyed institutions of a neighboring state seem to be giving way before it. Yet it is believed that no bank in Maine will be seriously affected, nor is it presumed that there will be any in New England, nor will a well regulated bank be troubled anywhere. There must be something wrong in the conducting of a banking institution which fails to perform all its duties to the public amidst the abundant resources of the country as they now exist. The present pressure must soon pass away. It would indeed be strange, with a greater amount of specie than ever before in the country, with a very large balance of foreign trade in our favor, that this pressure should be of great severity, or of long continuance.

True, from the unexampled pressure of money in England; from the fact that a very large portion of the oldest and strongest mercantile houses there have failed; from the fact that British bills for a long period have formed a portion of the currency of the commercial world, the want of which heretofore has been much felt by the citizens of that portion of our state, and by those having occasion to travel in that quarter. The alteration in the road has not yet been completed, but will be early the ensuing summer. When this is finished, the amount expended will be some less than that authorized by the legislature at its last session; the precise sum I am not able to state, in consequence of vouchers not being yet returned to this office, and the settlement of these accounts must therefore be postponed to the ensuing year.

A. LYON, *Bank
N. EMERY, Comptrollers*

Abstract of the Land Agents' Report.

Of the lands held by this state in severalty, there have been sold thirty-two thousand eight hundred and twenty-six acres for the sum of thirteen thousand six hundred and thirty-nine dollars forty-four cents.

There have also been sold four thousand nine hundred and fifty acres, which had reverted to the state, for the non-performance of the conditions of previous sales, for the sum of two thousand eight hundred seventy-seven dollars nine cents.

The quantity of land owned by this state in common with Massachusetts, which has been sold in one hundred thirty-five thousand six hundred and ninety-four acres, the purchase money for the same amounting to one hundred fifty thousand three hundred twenty-two dollars and eighty-two cents, one half of which sum, viz: seventy-five thousand one hundred and sixty-one dollars and forty-one cents is received by Maine.

In obedience to the resolve in favor of the trustees of Thomaston Academy, I have conveyed to them the west half of township numbered seven in the fourth range of townships west from the east line of the State, satisfactory evidence having been adduced of their compliance with the conditions upon which the grant was made.

The amount paid by this department into the state treasury during the past year is one hundred fifteen thousand one hundred seventy-one dollars and sixty-seven cents, which has been received upon notes, stumpage bonds, and from the sales of lands. The past year has been peculiarly prosperous for the lumbering in common with other business interests, and in consequence the receipts of this office have been larger than anticipated at its commencement.

The following townships of undivided lands have been surveyed, viz: townships numbered nine, ten, eleven, twelve and thirteen, in the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth ranges west from the east line of the state. The timber upon territory equal to about five townships of this survey, may, by means of the improvements of the Lake Heron Dam Company, be brought down the Penobscot waters, although all of the above townships are located upon the Allagash river, one of the large tributaries of the St. John; this circumstance is regarded as giving large additional value to this portion of the survey over these townships the timber upon which must find its way to market down the river St. John.

Mr. Jacob W. Stinchfield was employed to explore the above townships, at the same time for the purpose of estimating the timber thereon, and making examinations necessary to fix the value of the same. This duty he has thoroughly performed upon all excepting townships number thirteen, in the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth ranges, which he had not time to examine, and by his report there is upon the twelve townships explored, ninety-one millions eight hundred thousand feet board measure of pine timber, suitable for board logs, nearly one half of which, it is believed, may be floated down the Penobscot.

Township letter E, in the first range of townships west from the east line of the state has also been lotted for sale and settlement.

The land agent of Massachusetts and the undersigned, contemplate making further surveys in the ensuing season, in that portion of the public domain lying between the west line of the seventh range and the east line of the eleventh range, constituting an area of about twenty-five townships. Preparations will be made to start surveying parties as early in the spring as business can be commenced with advantage.

The legislature at its last session, authorized the land agent of this state to expend upon the Fish River Road, three thousand dollars, provided Massachusetts should expend a like amount at the same purpose.

The agent of Massachusetts, with his usual liberality, concurring in the propriety of the expenditure, we have applied to that object nearly the amount allowed.

Mr. Nathaniel Blake was appointed to superintend the outlay upon the road beyond townships number eleven in the sixth range. Under his superintendence the road from that township to Portage Lake has been turnpiked, with the exception of about one mile through cultivated land. Beyond the Portage Lake he was directed to expend so much as should be indispensably necessary to render the road passable, the amount being unavoidably left to his discretion.

In addition to the foregoing, the land agents of the two states, under an arrangement with Ira Fish, Esq., have caused a bridge to be erected across the Aroostook river, on the line of the Fish River Road, in township number eleven range five, and an alteration to be made in the location of the road of about one mile and a half.

The cost of the Bridge will be twenty-eight hundred dollars, of which sum eighteen hundred dollars are to be paid by this state and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the residue by means of private subscriptions made for that purpose by the citizens of that township, whose liberality and enterprise are entitled to much commendation.

The bridge is a valuable and permanent structure, the want of which heretofore has been much felt by the citizens of that portion of our state, and by those having occasion to travel in that quarter. The alteration in the road has not yet been completed, but will be early the ensuing summer. When this is finished, the amount expended will be some less than that authorized by the legislature at its last session; the precise sum I am not able to state, in consequence of vouchers not being yet returned to this office, and the settlement of these accounts must therefore be postponed to the ensuing year.

I will add, that passing as the Fish River Road does in its almost entire length, through lands not taxable, it will be incumbent on the legislature to authorize expenditures, from time to time, to open it more thoroughly, and to keep it in repair, as otherwise the benefit of previous expenditures will be in a great measure lost.

Upon the Military Road, three hundred and eighty-five dollars have been expended in making the ordinary repairs; the entire amount authorized being five hundred dollars. The balance will probably be called for before the meeting of the legislature, and I would recommend that the expenditure of a like amount be authorized for repairing this road the ensuing year.

A bridge has likewise been constructed over the Mattawamkeag river where the road from Snyrna to the Aroostook Road crosses the same, at a cost of six hundred dollars. This was done by contract with John Rollins, Esq., and at the joint charge of Maine and Massachusetts.

The appropriation for the repair of the Barre and Houlton Road through the town of Baileyville, has been expended under the superintendence of John N. Farrar, Esq., whose accounts have been settled. The appropriation for the repairs of the same road through the Indian township, has been expended under the supervision of Putnam Roll, Esq., whose accounts have likewise been audited, allowed and paid.

John V. Putnam, Esq., was appointed the agent to expend the sum appropriated for the repair of the road through township number eleven, at the monument, which service has been performed, and the bills paid.

A contract has been made with Putnam Roll, Esq., to rebuild the Lewy's Island Bridge, for nine hundred and seventy-five dollars, which work by the terms of the contract is to be completed by the 20th of March next, so that no interruption will occur to the travel upon the Houlton and Barre road.

Under the resolve providing for building a road through Dann's Notch, in Andover north surplus, I have contracted with John I. Bragg, Esq., to construct the same in conformity with the provisions of said resolve, and for the sum authorized thereto to be paid.

Andrew Hall, Esq., was appointed by my predecessor, to expend the appropriation for repairing the Moss head Lake Road, and a large part of the appropriation has been advanced to him, but his account has not yet been received.

No expenditures have been made upon the Eastern Aroostook Road the past year.

During the year past, but few sales have been made of settling lands, owing to no small degree of settling lands, owing to no small degree of difficulty in getting in, and in no small degree stimulate the settlement of the public domain. I would not, however, recommend a change of the law at present, any further, than to authorize the granting of permits to cut and haul timber sufficient for domestic consumption and manufacture; that this is expedient must appear from the fact that upon the St. John and its tributary streams there are twenty mills which depend for their stock almost entirely upon the Penobscot.

It is confidently hoped that ere long it will be proper once more to open the Aroostook and St. John valleys to lumbering operations, which will again afford a vent for the surplus agricultural products of that region, and in no small degree stimulate the settlement of the public domain. I would not, however, recommend a change of the law at present, any further, than to authorize the granting of permits to cut and haul timber sufficient for domestic consumption and manufacture; that this is expedient must appear from the fact that upon the St. John and its tributary streams there are twenty mills which depend for their stock almost entirely upon the Penobscot.

In relation to the amount due to this state for the stamping of timber cut upon the rivers St. John and Aroostook, under permits granted in 1845, I have to say that the commission created by the legislature at its last session, met and heard the parties and fixed upon a basis for settlement, all which will be submitted in a report of that body.

The meeting was held in October last and measures were taken to notify persons interested and to secure our demands, but owing to the lateness of the season and the financial disasters occurring at that time in Great Britain seriously affecting the business of the province of New Brunswick, but little progress has been made in obtaining additional security, though it is confidently expected that nearly all may be adjusted in the course of the next session.

The quantity of lands at this time belonging to Maine, including her interest in the individual territory, is about two millions three hundred thousand acres, but it cannot be stated with precision accuracy, for the reason that an area supposed to contain about fifty townships as yet remains unsurveyed.

It is impossible to fix the actual value of the public domain, but it is believed that it may be safely stated at half a dollar per acre, as being within the amount which the state will realize for it.

Many tracts are worth much more than that sum while others are worth less.

I deem it proper to suggest that by the terms of the charter of the Heron Lake Dam Company granted in 1846, the legislature is authorized to fix the amount of toll which that corporation may demand for passing its works; this power has not yet been exercised; but inasmuch as the number upon several of the townships surveyed the past season will use the erections of that company in its transit to market, it will be proper to adjust this toll before sale is made of these tracts or operations permitted theron.

The receipts of the land office are necessarily affected by the same general causes which influence all other kinds of business; but should the spring prove propitious for bringing to market the lumber cut during the ensuing season, the payments of this department into the treasury for the year 1848 will not fall short of one hundred thousand dollars.
